Hymnic Notes:

The processional is Charles Wesley's magisterial hymn, alive with vivid biblical metaphors and images of Christ's second advent, with allusions to his Ascension, set to the splendid, expansive, inviting tune HELMSLEY. The tune is named after a small town in Yorkshire, England.

The recessional is an invitation to allow our hearts to receive Christ's grace and love during this Advent season. It is a metaphor for the dialogue, probably sung by a priestly choir, in Psalm 24:7-10 (see KJV text on left facing page of the hymn) that accompanies the opening of the temple gates to allow entrance of the procession of the ark, the latter representing the immediate presence of The Lord of Hosts.

"I Want to Walk as a Child of the Light"

Isaiah 11:1-10

A shoot shall come out from the stump of Jesse, and a branch shall grow out of his roots. The spirit of the Lord shall rest on him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of the Lord. His delight shall be in the fear of the Lord. He shall not judge by what his eyes see, or decide by what his ears hear; but with righteousness he shall judge the poor, and decide with equity for the meek of the earth; he shall strike the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips he shall kill the wicked. Righteousness shall be the belt around his waist, and faithfulness the belt around his loins. The wolf shall live with the lamb, the leopard shall lie down with the kid, the calf and the lion and the fatling together, and a little child shall lead them. The cow and the bear shall graze, their young shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. The nursing child shall play over the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put its hand on the adder's den. They will not hurt or destroy on all my holy mountain; for the earth will be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea. On that day the root of Jesse shall stand as a signal to the peoples; the nations shall inquire of him, and his dwelling shall be glorious.
